SEVERAL STRATHMORE STORES ROBBED LAST WEEK

At Cott's Meat Market the midnight visitors forced the back door, but failed to gain more than a few dimes, and they also overlooked some oil shares which were in the unbroken

The Strathmore Hardware looked good to the midnight visitors, and here valuable guns, which Mr. Rellinger makes a specialty of carrying in stock, were taken, two watches, the property of his customers, and about twenty Constable Wallace has been busy working on the case, assisted by Detective Russel, of Calgary, but so far has not been able to obtain any results.

It is thought that the same party or parties who have been operating in Southern Alberta at High River,

A quantity of the goods stolen from Strathmore were found cached at Nose Creek, Calgary by two young lads, among which were the watches lost by Mrs. Bray, on Wednesday, and the Provincial Police are hopeful that some further developments may follow from clues picked up.

The Spring

Each season has its merits 'tis true,
But Spring brings forth all life anew;
When all the flowers begin to bloom,
And bring the world from out of gloom
The first to venture in the cold,
Is the daffodil with petals gold,
Which flower is so greatly sought

When time is spent beneath the sun,
And laughter through the air doth ring
For truly it is the Spring.

"MEN'S BETTER WEAR"

OLD AZTEC CALENDAR
USED SIMPLE SYSTEM

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The modern world in general and the nation in particular, in its consideration of the 15-month year will find interest in a somewhat similar system devised by the Aztecs, according to Edward Butts, curator of the public library museum in Kansas City.

"The Aztec calendar consisted of 260 days," Mr. Butts asserted. "The new calendar also consists of 260 days. The Aztec calendar was operated by weeks of 13 days each and seven of these weeks per season, or 28 13-day weeks per year."

The proposed calendar would have 52 seven-day weeks in a year. The Aztecs considered one day a holiday after an ordinary year and two holidays after leap years. Those were called "motionless," or the days on which no business was transacted. The Aztec calendar had the additional advantage that the seasons terminated at each point on the calendar wheels, an advantage not possessed by the proposed scheme.

SPORT NOTES

PUTTING IT ON

When they're out for batting practice, you can hear the batter yell, "Put something on the ball."

And in the hotel dining room, You can hear them grate; They're crumbing at the waiter, Put something on the plate."

"THEM WERE THE DAYS"

Kid Gleason, coach for the Philadelphia Athletics, is good for a lot of talk, if one can get him started. In a training he at the As camp in Port Myers recently, the Kid got worked up over the old days, and told the boys a story that let them know what tricks the oldtimers resorted to in order to gain victory.

Baltimore was playing the Chicago Cubs, managed by Cap Anson, on a day toward the close of the 1894 season and needed just one more victory to win the pennant. But in the ninth inning the Cubs put two men on base, and two out and Anson, one of the bravest hitters of the time, was at bat, with the Orioles only leading by one run.

"I couldn't let that guy hit," said Gleason. "He'd ruined the ball game for us and maybe lay, and I'd expect about winning the flag, for there were only a couple more games to play. So when Anson stepped into the box I yelled at him. I was pitching then."

"You big bum! I yelled. 'Try and hit one now! Out he came for me. Come on! I wanted him. 'Come out here, you big lumberhead, and I'll knock you back where you belong.' Anson was wild to get his hands on me. But before he got very far the ump went after him."

"That was what I wanted. Tom Lynch, later president of the National League, was umpiring the game. He caught hold of Anson and ordered him to the clubhouse. I sure gotta laugh when Anson had to beat it."

"Then somebody else was put in to bat for him. We got him out without any trouble and had our pennant. I didn't see Anson after that game until the following season. Then he told me he saw through my scheme as soon as Lynch chased him. He enjoyed it then as much as I did."

"Them were the days," said Gleason, with a musing glimmer in his eyes. "You can't pull that kind of stuff any more. It wouldn't go."

DOES MANAGER MAKE TEAM?

Whether a manager makes a team or a team makes a manager may be determined at the end of the 1929 playing season, when Detroit has settled where it is going to finish in the American League race. The Tigers wound up in sixth place under George Moriarty last season after Try Cobb tried for several years to put them on the top rung and failed.

Bucky's inspiration is claimed to have been the impulse that pushed Washington into two championships after being down for the remainder of the league. He will have to administer a lot of "it," or whatever it is that he instilled into the Senators, to lift the Detroit team much higher than Moriarty left it, for, on paper, it does not look very impressive. It will be a considerably revamped team, with the most valuable addition, probably being Alexander at first. This International League certainly can turn the ball and play a dash in first base. If he can hit like he did at Toronto he will make many pitchers stay awake nights. Gehrig will be back at second and McManus at third. The former is one of the best in the game, but the latter's arm is getting cruddy. Schube is labled for about as he will remember him, the young lad who once made an awful mess trying to play that position for the Cardinals two years ago. It is said he has improved since. Richardson from Fort Worth may get the job, if Schube fails to measure up. Slaughter is an understudy for McManus. Brannon from Louisville, a first baseman, probably will be released. Bucky may fill in, when necessary, in the infield.

With Alexander taking care of first, Hellman will return to the outfield with Rice and Roy Johnson, a slugger from the Coast League, and his comrades. Pothergill is certain to remain as utility and Rube is the most likely of the three. Wade and Stone are not likely to make the grade. Uhle, once a star with Cleveland, is counted upon as bringing aid to the pitching staff, which will need it. Johnny Pruthomme from Toronto looks like the most promising of the newcomers and may develop into a headliner. Stoner, Carroll, Sorrell, Whitehill, Billings and Gibson are back. Yde, once with Pittsburgh, is attempting a come-back. Then there are Hassell, Van Gilder, Pippen and F. Barnes—plenty of different kinds of pitching, but none of it strong enough to put any genuine stamp on it. Detroit boasts of a fair catching staff in Woodall, Hargraves, Shea and Phillips.

TRIBUTES FOCH

OTTAWA—Canadian Parliament said heartfelt tribute to the memory of the late Marshal Foch, as leaders in Commons paid tribute to the record and accomplishments of the greatest soldier of modern times, the Allied Generalissimo in the latter day of the Great War.

The very subdued nature of the applause with which the remarks of Premier Mackenzie King, Hon. R. B. Bennett were received indicated the impressiveness of the occasion and the earnest sympathy of the Commons in subscribing to the eulogies.

"We Also Share" "Never before in the history of mankind," said Premier King, "was the fate of so many nations entrusted so completely to the judgment of one man. That so great a trust was wisely reposed is everywhere acknowledged, in expressing to France our sympathy in her national bereavement we are giving expression as well to a world loss in which we also share."

In closing the speaker requested his words of a former occasion addressed to the French Marshal: "As Canadians we honor your illustrious name; your military fame, we shall cherish. May the light that never faileth lead you on."

Mr. Bennett said, in part: "There has passed from the world one of the greatest citizens. He was not only great as a military genius; he was not only great because in a moment of great peril when he was entrusted with great responsibilities he discharged them in a manner highly satisfactory to those who had reposed their confidence in him, but he was great because of the possession of those qualities which one of our own great writers has referred to as the earmarks of true greatness."

"He was a man of great humility, with a high sense of duty and regard to his obligations to his fellow-men, and, above all, with a true respect for his obligations to his Creator. We are told that the moments of the greatest stress and strain, when the fortunes of armies hung in the balance, it was his custom to repair to a little chapel and there to find devotion through Mother Church to his Creator."

"We do indeed grieve and sympathize with poor France. We grieve with practically the whole world. It is an odd circumstance, but it is a fact that the deceased Marshal had never heard a gun fired in anger until after the war broke out. Until then he was simply a student of war, and for two great military textbooks on war that the world has ever seen, for he applied modern science to the science of Napoleon, and in doing so made victory possible."

Mr. Bennett recalled how Field Marshal Earl Roberts had proposed Foch's responsibilities and fame.

"Calumnies and devotion to duty," said Mr. Bennett, "enabled him (Foch) to snatch victory where defeat seemed imminent, and made the path of duty the path of glory. We grieve with his native land, but we rejoice that a soul so great has passed to his eternal reward."

President Hoover: "It was my privilege to gain perhaps a special insight not only into his ability, but also into his fine human qualities of strictness, firmness, kindness and modesty."

Rapinoud Polignac, French Premier war-time, President of the great soldier and a great Frenchman is gone."

Myron T. Herrick, United States Ambassador: "The human side of the man was, I think, after all, his greatest side. What his personal charm was, only those who came in personal contact with him knew."

Sir William G. Tyrer, British Ambassador: "In my country, which has lost the honor to number him among its sons, he will be honored as a nation here."

Paul Painlevé, French Minister of War: "He will go down in history to rank with Caesar, Alexander, and Napoleon, but as a liberator rather than a conqueror."

Stanley Baldwin, British Prime Minister: "In him there has passed away one of the great soldiers of all time, and what is more, one of the great souls."

Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Minister: "If bitterness remains it is not found today among those who were the stoutest fighters."

David Lloyd George: "It is my greatest pride that I discerned his supreme gifts in time and that, as Prime Minister of this country, I took a leading part in making him commander in chief of all the Allied forces on the western front."

Field Marshal Sir William Robertson, chief of British Imperial General Staff, 1915-18: "The man who was essentially a man of high principle, extreme modesty and with no thought of self, was probably the only general who would have been acceptable to all governments concerned."

Georges Clemenceau, French war-time Premier: "The man who died is entitled to the profoundest respect of the entire world."

Premier Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria gave the Associated Press a short signed tribute to Marshal Foch in which he declared that the Marshal was, besides General Gallieni, the most outstanding among French army leaders.

THE SAYINGS AND DOINGS OF MANY PUBLIC MEN

The "Anti-Bush" Candidate: "I know what the farmer needs, but I can't give it to him. But I am going to tell him before election that I can't give it to him—no afterwards, I can tell him what he needs. He needs a pump in the jaw, if he believes that any of the parties care a damn about him after the election. That's all the farmer needs, and that's all he'll get."

Sir Thomas Harder: "The preservation of health does not depend upon the observance of a set of inhibitions whether in food or other things. It depends upon temperance and a quiet mind."

Sir Phillip Gibbs: "At all costs we must reestablish faith in spiritual values. We must worship something beyond ourselves lest we destroy ourselves."

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick: "The great tragedies of history have not been caused by weakness but by the abuse of power."

Premier Baldwin referred to the late Marshall Foch as follows: "This great soldier and patriot epitomizes, in the British eyes, the military genius of France, and I am certain the British people will sincerely mourn one who served the Allied cause as faithfully in every memory, and whose distinguished and inspiring personality has been the affection and admiration of the esteem, both of every British soldier that served under him and of the British nation as a whole."

Reginald J. Campbell: "The faith of a little child, the simplicity and love of a little child, makes us one with the eternal glory of him who came to the earth as a little child."

The Rev. Ralph W. Sockman: "No domination can defend its separate existence unless it is making some distinctive contribution to our common religious life."

Henry Ford: "When the truth comes everywhere, it will be a great surprise to see how near we have been to it all the time without recognizing it."

Lord Hugh Cecil: "Beligion is a thing to be realized, to be practiced, to be enjoyed rather than merely to be believed."

Enil Ludwig: "Whatever has been accomplished is destined to be surpassed by something better, sprung from renewed efforts."

General von Seeck: "If only governments would show the same sincerity as their people in the desire to abolish war!"

Winnipeggers Upsets Pessimistic Theory
TORONTO.—D. W. Storey, of Winnipeg, upset the theory that the export and trade in Canada faces a period of lower prices or greatly increased consumption, when he addressed the Canadian Produce Association convention here on the subject of "Co-operative Marketing."

Mr. Storey said that since coming to Toronto he had learned that this season 50 cars of American eggs and 2,000,000 pounds of frozen eggs had been imported from the United States, making the equivalent of 150 cars of eggs. "I wonder," he said, "if the 150 cars of American eggs were off the market, the Canadian market would not be better. I think it would show that it is in pretty fair shape."

Mr. Storey contrasting co-operative and corporation marketing methods, said: "Co-operative marketing has been called agricultural revolution. However, that may be, I know that if there is any place where marketing conditions have been revolutionized it is in the prairie provinces. The difference between the methods is caused by the different purposes to which they are put by the men utilizing the forms. One of the economic discoveries of the last 25 years was the farmer's ability to market his own products for his own benefit, to the same degree as the corporation."

Mr. Storey intimated that the high prices paid for storage eggs was the result of too vigorous competition by the dealer to grab all the eggs in sight. He stressed the value of co-operative methods as illustrated in the several pools. In this system the farmers were all paid like for equal quality. The spread between street wheat and wheat on truck has been dissipated and the prices paid for poultry in some instances are aggregating $850, showed the extent to which the pools were satisfying the demand for eggs.

He stressed the fact that the best relationship should exist between the produce merchant and the producer himself. In view of the fact that there had been less eggs exported and more imported, the resolution committee brought in a motion to memorialize the federal government to take steps to initiate a campaign to educate the people on the food value of eggs, and facilitate the export of Great Britain for consumption there.

Farmer a Businessman
Dr. G. I. Pringle, president of the Quebec Agricultural college, addressing the convention, stated that the farmer could not hope to make money out of his products unless he received a fair price, and the price in some measure, depended on the produce dealer. "You cannot increase the consumption of eggs," he said, "until you are able to guarantee uniform quality in product. The situation, as I find it in the average grocery store, is that the buyer is not quibbling about price, but he is fussing over quality."

The produce dealer could only hope to succeed when he could deliver eggs of superior quality, which superiority must begin on the farm. With reasonable demands and good business methods, the price to the farmer would adjust itself. In his opinion, the best way to educate the farmer regarding market requirements was not in sending him annual reports filled with windy speeches. "The question is, are you pouring the information you possess into the agencies which can use it to bring results? The farmer of today must be essentially different from the farmer of years ago."

Mr. Storey said that since coming to Toronto he had learned that this season 50 cars of American eggs and 2,000,000 pounds of frozen eggs had been imported from the United States, making the equivalent of 150 cars of eggs. "I wonder," he said, "if the 150 cars of American eggs were off the market, the Canadian market would not be better. I think

Meat a Valuable Diet
TORONTO.—A few years ago there was a considerable school of medical men and so-called health experts who decried meat as a food. Every kind of animal and vegetable product was touted by mistake as being healthy.

Producers, along with the other interests in the industry, are beginning to be conscious of these facts. In a recent issue of the Farmer & Stock Breeder, London, England, the following appears in a discussion of the question:

"It is gratifying to note that there appears to be a growing appreciation of the value of meat in the diet. Dr. Clarence W. Lieb, of New York, is a distinguished investigator who has made a study of meat eaters. In a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association he makes the following statement:

diplomacies as being preferable to meat. Producers and others interested in various kinds of foods seized eagerly upon the proposition. The supposed authorities to press their claims and decry meat. Even meat producers were sometimes inclined to do so if they were influenced by their faith in their business. Unfortunately livestock men, manufacturers and merchandisers of meat products did not take these attacks seriously or were timid or dilatory in dealing with them. Undoubtedly these false representations did harm to the meat industry, producers included. But in the end the natural food of man has come through unscathed. Un-proven scientific research seeking only after facts have disproved the whole mass of false assumptions. The claims that only milk, eggs and leafy vegetables contain the necessary vitamins have gone by the boards. Similar claims for butter as compared with other animal fats have stood the searchlight of cold truth. The claims that meat caused rheumatism, gout and kidney troubles have now found to be pure assumptions. The superior quality of meat proteins has been demonstrated. Products, along with the other interests in the industry, are beginning to be conscious of these facts. In a recent issue of the Farmer & Stock Breeder, London, England, the following appears in a discussion of the question:

which should cause the great majority to deprive themselves of any part of the meat diet which they now enjoy."

"There exists today a fair measure of agreement regarding the nutritive value of meat. On the basis of this agreement, the following statements regarding the value of meat in the diet were prepared by the Committee on Nutrition for the Institute of American Meat Packers:—

1.—Meat is a natural food, containing the highest form of protein for human consumption in the most palatable, stimulating, and digestible form.

2.—It also contains fats of the highest type, along with protein and other meat constituents.

3.—Meat contains vitamins in sufficient quantity for nutritional requirements, particularly if a moderate proportion of fat and the internal organs such as liver, kidney, sweetbread and heart—are consumed from time to time, in place of the ordinary steak, roast, or chop.

4.—Meat is by far the most important single item in the diet, which fact has been recognized by mankind generally from time immemorial. The daily menu has been built around meat as the central item.

5.—Meat contains high-grade animal fats, and we recommend these as energy foods. We regard proteins and calories still as the two fundamentals in dietetics. Carbohydrates, such as the starches found in cereals, are also valuable as energy foods, and should be consumed in fair proportion for the sake of variety.

6.—The vegetable proteins are generally inferior to meat proteins and cannot be considered as true substitutes for meat. A few of them, found in small proportions in rice, in peanuts, in wheat, and in maize, are fairly good, but are not truly equivalent to the proteins of meat.

7.—We regard milk and dairy products as important articles of food which should be consumed in moderate quantities and along with other foods."

Furthermore, the advance in the price of meat, and the fact that other commodities have been small. The fact is that on the whole meat has advanced less in price than other goods. Even when in the summer of 1928 the price of beef had a spectacular rise the average price of the various cuts of beef at retail did not attain the advance that had long ago taken place in the price of bread, fruit, potatoes, clothing, fuel and light, rent, etc. Even such comparatively high-priced meats as "beef sirloin" and "breakfast bacon" have not risen in price to a level with bread, clothing, fuel, rent or sundries and are still considerably below the cost of such other commodities as sugar, flour, and wage levels. Then when it is taken into consideration that from the same carcass of beef and pork come "beef shoulder" and pork "loin" which are below the general level of prices and also that there are in each carcass a big percentage of other comparatively low-priced meats it will be seen that MEAT is CHEAP.

HEARD ON THE STREET

Candidate for political office, successful or otherwise, who are required by law to file campaign expenses returns, may be interested in this particularly succinct one filed in Massachusetts: "Paid nothing, promised nothing, got nothing."

A K.C. strolling along a street one morning, came to a fishmonger's shop. He was fascinated by the dead, cold, expressionless eyes of the fish on a slab in the window.

"Good lord, that reminds me," he said suddenly hurrying away. "I've got to address a special jury this afternoon."

The wife of a famous English Bishop—whom we shall call John Blank—was recently very ill, and required a serious operation. As she recovered from the anaesthetic, she was heard to murmur: "Am I in Heaven? Am I in Heaven? No, there's John!"

Papa: "Isn't mamma ready yet?" Junior: "No, she hasn't even asked she's about ready yet."

"Should a husband keep anything from his wife?" asks a writer. Enough for lunch and tobacco money we should say.

Dropping into his club the other day before lunch, a thirsty member ordered a bottle of beer, but before he could enjoy it he was called away to the telephone. In order to protect his property he seized the top card of a pack—it happened to be the three of diamonds—and, writing his name upon it, leaned it against the bottle and went to answer his call. When he returned his drink was gone. "I say," he complained loudly, "where's my drink?"

"Oh, didn't you know?" chuckled the nearby denizen of an easy chair. "Young Fortescue came along with the ten of diamonds and took the trick."

Spence Hughes: "Police Barstake?" Voice on Phone: "Yeah, what's wrong?"

Spence Hughes: "I've got a suspicious character here—he wants to pay cash for a used car."

"My razor doesn't cut at all."

"Why, Henry, you don't mean to tell me that your beard is tougher than the blades?"

Mistress (severely): "Sarah! I found my blue dress in your trunk." Sarah: "Just fancy, mum! And it was only the other day you thought you'd lost it."

Father (awaiting news): "Well, nurse, will it use a razor or a lip stick?"

Captain: "Well, how many faith-oms?"

Mate: "I can't touch bottom, Sir."

Captain: "Dammit man, how near do you come?"

Note received by school teacher: "Nice Wednesday Sammy has had a pain in his stomach. Please send him to the clinic for a doctor to look into it."

Dorothy, aged six, had been punished for answering back. From the corner came an aggrieved voice:

"I can't think how it is, Mamma, you can be as rude as you like to me and nobody says a word to you about it."

Aunt Anna was recovering from the fit and she was annoyed to have well meaning but tactless visitors tell her how badly she looked. Sympathetic little Edward was trying to comfort her.

"Don't let them make you feel sorry, Auntie," he said. "I don't think you look one single bit worse than you always do."

Wife (at 2 a.m.): "If I only knew where you've been!"

Husband: "Hou! not qui maly pona."

Wife: "There you go. Whenever you come home in that condition you start using bad language."

Mother: "Jessie, the next time you hurt pussy I am going to do the same thing to you. If you slap it, I'll slap you. If you pull its ears, I'll pull yours. If you pinch it, I'll pinch you."

Jessie (after a moment's thought): "Mamma, I'll pull its tail."

Chairman (again coming forward): "Ladies and gentlemen, instead of singing 'Only once more,' Miss Blank will now sing 'For ever and ever'."

Chairman (later): "Ladies and gentlemen, Miss Blank will sing 'Only once more.'"

Voice from back of hall: "Thank goodness."

The class had to write a sentence in which the phrase "bitter end" should appear. Billy Keeling wrote: "Our dog chased the cat and bit 'er end."

The stranger knocked at Ernie Whiteside's door, and told him how a fortune was to be made.

"Uh, huh!" said Ernie. "But that will take considerable effort."

"Yes," said the stranger, "your days will be filled with toil, and many of your nights will be sleepless."

"Ah," said Ernie, "but who are you?"

"I," asked the stranger. "Way, I am Opportunity!"

"Get out!" said Ernie. "You're a liar! I know you. You are just plain every day Hard Work! I know you, I am a golf player!"

And he slammed the door.

Half an inch, half an inch, half an inch, shorter;

The skirts are the same of mother and daughter;

When the winds blow, each one of them shows

Half an inch, half an inch more than she ought.

Judge: "Now, I don't expect to see you here again, Rufus."

Rufus: "Not see me here again, Judge? Why you ain't a golt to resign yo' job, is you, Judge?"

"Elector," said the schoolmaster, "tell yer classmates about yer savin' Wully Keeling frae drowning."

Heitor: "He had me skates on."

Complainant in an assault case: "He picked up a bicycle, frame from the rubbish heap and struck me without purification. He also used unclean language."

Elderly Lady: "Does your father know that you are smoking, Lily boy?"

Youth (about 14 years old): "You're married, ain't you?"

Elderly Lady: "I am."

Youth: "Does your husband know you speak to strange men?"

A man was, one day visiting an In-sane Hospital, and while walking in the grounds he met a patient to whom he said:

"Well, how do you get here?"

The man replied: "Well, sir, you see married a widow with a grown up daughter, and then my father married my wife's daughter, that made my wife the mother in law of her father in law, and my father became my step-son. Then my step-mother, the daughter of my wife, had a son, and that boy, of course, was my brother, because he was my father's son, but he also was my wife's step-son, and therefore, to her grandson, and that made the grandfather of my step-brother. Then my wife had a son, so my mother in law, the step sister of my son, is also his grandmother, because his step sister is his wife. I am the brother of my own son, who is also the son of my step grandmother. I am my mother's brother in law, my wife is his own child's aunt, my son is my father's nephew, and I am my own grandfather. That's one reason I am here, sir."

Bill Wilkinson remarks that the difference between a battery and a Scotchman, is that you can overcharge a battery.

Jim Moran says the proper definition of "rigid economy" is a dead Scotchman.

Two ladies were discussing interesting plans for tourists; one said, "I don't like Victoria, it is too quiet"; the other said, "I don't go to Calgary any more, there are too many Irish men there."

An Irishman overheard their conversation, and retorted, "You can go, you won't find any Irish there."

NIGHTINGALE

The Bachelors' dance at the hall was a decided success. The music by the Drummer orchestra was excellent. The crowd enjoyed every dance, and the Home Sweet Home waltz came all too soon. The bachelors served a splendid supper, and the coffee was unusually good.

The U.F.W.A. held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Hanson on Thursday. Current events was the roll call, and many interesting topics were introduced. Mrs. Lambert read an address given by Mrs. Spencer at the Convention last winter. A committee was appointed to provide for a dance or some entertainment in the near future. Mrs. Stoodley was elected chairman. The hostess served a delicious luncheon and a very pleasant social hour was spent. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Donkin on April 4th.

Miss Lofsgarden, Valley Garden teacher, is spending her Easter holidays in Calgary.

Mrs. J. C. Busch and family have moved to Rockyford. Before they left a number of neighbors and friends gathered and gave them a surprise farewell. Mr. Glendon, on behalf of the men present, presented Mr. Busch with a pouch and pipe, while Miss Lofsgarden did the honor and presented Mrs. Busch with gifts, a handkerchief shower. A very pleasant evening was spent, and all left wishing the Busch family every success in their new home.

The U.F.W.A. are staging a dance at the hall for April 5th, so come along and enjoy yourself.

Mr. and Mrs. James Galpin were guests for several days at the home of Mr. E. M. Stoodley before leaving for their new home at Estevale, Alberta. Mr. and Mrs. Galpin have been residents north of Strathmore since 1910, and will be much missed by the community.

unity. Quite a number went to Ardmore Thursday morning to spend them on their way with all best wishes for their health and prosperity.

Mr. L. Groom is expected home about the first of the week. He has been in England for the last four months.

CARSELAND

The U.F.A. and U.F.W.A. held the first of a series of joint meetings, and social evenings at the home of Mrs. G. B. Field last Friday evening, March 22. About forty were present. After the separate business meetings were over, those present spent a very enjoyable hour or so at progressive whist, after which the ladies served a delicious lunch.

The regular meeting of the U.F.A. will be held on the first Saturday evening of each month, unless otherwise announced. The next meeting will be April 6th, when the Workmen's Compensation Act as applicable to farmers and farmers help, will be discussed.

The U.F.A. St. Patrick's dance was a real success. The hall was tastefully decorated in green and white. A good crowd was present. The net proceeds were $135.41.

The Standard will be glad to have the names of visitors in town and accounts of various social events for publication. Such communications should be signed and the address or the sender given. Readers in the surrounding districts are especially invited to send us news. We want to cover the whole of Bow Valley. Make the Standard and Your Home Paper.

THE SUPPLEMENTARY TAX UPON IMPROVEMENTS POSTPONED

The Brownie Government very wisely acceded to the requests of the Mayor of the Towns and Cities of the Province, and have held over the proposed changes in regard to the Supplementary Tax upon improvements. That such legislation would prove beneficial is certainly questionable and some day politicians may ascertain that in plugging tags on the towns and cities, that they have failed to accomplish the purpose they had in view. The placing of taxes upon business

SHOULD CONCRETE

HIGHWAYS BE ## CONSTRUCTED NOW?

The Manitoba Free Press says Minister of Road policy "It is to be seen with at a session of the Legislature. The reports of Commissioner Balcock challenge the further use of gravel roads for trunk highways. He points out that the growing numbers, the more extensive use of greater speeds and heavier loads of motor vehicles have increased wear and tear upon the main highways to a point where he considers it sheer waste to try to maintain the more important stretches as gravel roads.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press points out that if Commissioner Balcock's figures on road maintenance are correct, the sensible thing to do is to approve a twenty million dollar issue in order that concrete highways may be constructed.

This is a matter that is of interest to Manitoba and the other Western Canadian provinces. Traffic is increasing, especially heavy traffic resulting from the use of motor trucks, and the question arises whether gravel roads are not more expensive in the long run than concrete. Future roads will have to be built not particularly for the ordinary motorist but for the movement of goods by motor truck as an integral part of the country's transportation system. It is doubtful whether the importance of this whole question has been fully seized in Western Canada.

NAMAKA

The home of Mr. Wm. Marshall was burned to the ground on Saturday, last week. The cause of fire was thought to be an explosion caused from the furnace.

The National Elevator Co. have had some men employed giving the building a new coat of paint.

Harry Baker spent the week end with his parents while on a few days vacation before leaving for Vancouver where he is being transferred.

Mr. Wheeler arrived home from the hospital during the week. We are sorry to learn he is still confined to his bed.

Mr. Jack Pawkes spent the week end with his brother.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hare and family of Calgary, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Baker.

The Nine Wonders of British Efficiency

Herbert N. Casson, writing from London to the Financial Post, sets forth in review what he terms the "nine wonders of British efficiency" supporting his thesis that "Great Britain is still far ahead of all other countries in most of the matters that create a solid prosperity."

These nine which Mr. Casson, a

A TYPE of performance entirely new in a low-priced automobile—that's what you experience when you drive the new Chevrolet Six!

Marvelous six-cylinder smoothness throughout the entire speed range! A freedom from vibration and rumble that makes driving and riding a constant delight! Increased speed and acceleration. More power for hills and heavy going!

You are cordially invited to come in for a demonstration—for until you actually sit at the wheel, you can never know what Chevrolet and General Motors' engineers have achieved in the new Chevrolet six-cylinder valve-in-head engine.

and a former Manitoban by the way, claims as the highest point of human achievement in their own line is headed by the Midland Bank.

This bank, the largest in the world, has deposits of $2,000,000,000 and assets of $2,200,000,000. It is one of the British "Big Five," one of which is Barclay's.

London Stock Exchange, an international organization, lists 4,000 securities as against, for instance, New York's 1,100. Lloyd's, the famous maritime exchange, is unique, standing as it has for eight generations and still going strong.

The Daily Mail finds a place with its 2,000,000 copies a day circulation.

The despatching room of the Midland railroad is cited. Here trains run 300 miles without a stop and in no other country are there so few accidents. The entire Midland railroad is operated from this single room.

The three greatest shipyards of the world are in the British Isles—at Glasgow, Newcastle and Belfast. The Belfast yard is now building for the White Star line a ship that will beat all previous records for length and tonnage.

Two factories come seventh and eighth—Carrara's and Cadbury's; and ninth is the underground station at Piccadilly which leads to two subways that run 1,600 trains a day.

Mr. Casson affirms that these are only a few of the things he could name as illustrating his point that there is life in the old girl yet, and that the only place where Britain is behind some other countries, which he does not name, is in advertising herself.

What's New?

News changes with each passing hour. All kinds of news—fascinating, strange, prophetic, real and unreal. It comes flashing on the pages of your paper from all parts of the world, and you want to know what's new.

Advertising is a form of news. It is governed by the same general principles and answers your every question as to "what's new?" You can depend upon advertising news. It is truthful. If you want something for the home, you will find it advertised. If a dress, a suit of clothes, a hat, a pair of shoes, a diamond ring, a bridge lamp, an electric refrigerator or a house and lot—you'll find it advertised.

Advertisements supply the surest means of knowing "what's new" in merchandise. Learn to read them—trust them—profit by them.

GREAT WESTERN AIRWAYS
LARGEST OPERATORS
WEST OF WINNIPEG

Aviation has made rapid strides in Canada during the last few years which is evidenced in the fact that throughout the Dominion it is fast establishing itself. The Canadian Aviation Company, which has its head quarters at Winnipeg, is the largest of its kind in the Dominion, and it is an indication of the air-mindedness of the West, that at Calgary we find the second largest company.

The Great West Airways Limited began operations at Calgary in June 1928, with one Stinson-Detroiter cabin biplane and later in the year two De Havilland's were added. By the end of the year the company's planes had carried some 1600 passengers a total distance of 82,000 miles. During this same period a total period of 200 hours were spent in the air on instruction, and 21 students were given flight training, a number of whom have since secured their pilot's license. Six hundred square miles of oil country were photographed from the air, and a total of 2200 square miles were surveyed for oil structures.

A large "Vickers-Viking" flying boat was rebuilt by the Company under contract with the owners, B. F. Landy & Co., Vancouver. This is probably the largest aircraft repair job ever done in Alberta.

The Company's planes have operated in each of the three Western Provinces from Southern British Columbia to Northern Saskatchewan.

In February of this year the Manager, Director, Capt. F. R. McCall, D.S.O., D.F.C., answered an emergency call for ambulance service to the Skit oil field south of Lethbridge. Two oil men had been injured by an explosion of dynamite caps in the bunkhouse. Within two hours after the plane had taken off from the Lethbridge field the men were in Galt Hospital despite the fact that a landing and take-off in two feet of snow were necessary at the well.

Later in the month Capt. McCall succeeded in transporting 2000 quarts of glycerine from Shelby, Montana, to Calgary. This explosive was urgently needed by the Calmont Oil Company to dislodge an obstruction in their Turner Valley Well. This was probably the first time in history that such a dangerous cargo was carried by air.

During the Banff Winter Carnival the Company established a regular twice-daily passenger service between Calgary and Banff, and in addition kept a small machine at Banff for sightseeing rides at the Winter Resort. The ice covered Bow River made an excellent landing field and when equipment was used extensively.

Active personnel of the Company include: Capt. F. R. McCall, Capt. J. Palmer, D.C.M., Lieut. R. B. Jackson, and Earl B. Stinson, Air Engineer.

The Company is one of the most successful operators in Canada, having paid a dividend on its first six months operations.

No accidents involving injury to pilots or passengers have occurred and only one accident resulting in slight damage to a machine has been reported.

Officers of the Company are as follows: President, Emil G. Sick; Vice-President, John S. Mavor, K.C.; Managing Director, Capt. F. R. McCall; Secretary-Treasurer, R. B. Jackson; Directors, George P. Tull, A. H. Wewer, John I. McFarland, Fred Stapella, Hon. W. A. Buchanan, Arthur G. Baillie.

An impression on the publisher, having paid a dividend on its first six months operations, something which counted.

During the Banff Winter Carnival the Company established a regular twice-daily passenger service between Calgary and Banff, and in addition kept a small machine at Banff for sightseeing rides at the Winter Resort. The ice covered Bow River made an excellent landing field and when equipment was used extensively.

Active personnel of the Company include: Capt. F. R. McCall, Capt. J. Palmer, D.C.M., Lieut. R. B. Jackson, and Earl B. Stinson, Air Engineer.

The Company is one of the most successful operators in Canada, having paid a dividend on its first six months operations.

No accidents involving injury to pilots or passengers have occurred and only one accident resulting in slight damage to a machine has been reported.

Officers of the Company are as follows: President, Emil G. Sick; Vice-President, John S. Mavor, K.C.; Managing Director, Capt. F. R. McCall; Secretary-Treasurer, R. B. Jackson; Directors, George P. Tull, A. H. Wewer, John I. McFarland, Fred Stapella, Hon. W. A. Buchanan, Arthur G. Baillie.

An impression on the publisher, having paid a dividend on its first six months operations, something which counted.
